

Contents

Acknowledgements ix

Abbreviations xi

Chronology xv

Introduction 1

Nature and freedom 1

Skepticism and critique 10

Further reading 15

One

A life in work 17

Childhood and student years 18

Return to the university 20

Toward the critical philosophy 24

The critical philosophy 37

Final works 43

Summary 46

Further reading 46

Part One	49
Nature
Two
Kant's Copernican revolution	51
Introduction	51
Space and time: the pure forms of sensible intuition	58
The contributions of the understanding	80
The metaphysical deduction	82
The transcendental deduction	91
The principles of empirical judgment	109
The refutation of idealism	132
Summary	140
Further reading	141
Three
The critique of metaphysics	144
The ideas of pure reason	148
The metaphysics of the self	153
The metaphysics of the world	158
The metaphysics of God	166
Summary	175
Further reading	176
Four
Building upon the foundations of knowledge	178
The systematic science of body	181
The systematicity of cognition in general	189
Summary	198
Further reading	199

Part Two

Freedom 201

Five

Laws of freedom: the foundations of Kant's moral philosophy 203

The derivation of the categorical imperative	206
Universal law and humanity as an end in itself	219
Confirmation of the categorical imperative
from commonly recognized duties	224
Autonomy and the realm of ends	233
Summary	237
Further reading	238

Six

Freedom, immortality, and God: the presuppositions of morality 242

The moral law and freedom of the will	245
Immortality and the existence of God	265
Summary	273
Further reading	274

Seven

Kant's system of duties I: the duties of virtue 276

Kant's division of duties	276
The general obligation of virtue	286
The specific duties of virtue	288
Summary	301
Further reading	301

Eight

Kant's system of duties II: duties of right 303

The universal principle of right, coercion, and innate right	303
The right to property	309
Political rights and obligations	323
Rebellion and reform	329
Toward Perpetual Peace	340

Summary	348
Further reading	349

Part Three

Nature and freedom 353

Nine

The beautiful, the sublime, and the morally good 355

Bridging the gulf	355
Varieties of aesthetic judgment	360
Aesthetics and morality	375
Summary	383
Further reading	384

Ten

Freedom and nature: Kant's revision of traditional teleology 387

The rejection of traditional teleology	387
From organisms to nature as a whole	391
Freedom, happiness, and the end of nature	403
Summary	413
Further reading	414

Eleven

The natural history of freedom 416

Summary	429
Further reading	430

Glossary 431

Notes 436

Select bibliography 477

Index 491