

Contents

Foreword
Imre Kertész
Europe's Oppressive Legacy	vii
Introduction
Steven Tötösy de Zepetnek and Louise O. Vasvári
Introduction to Comparative Central European Holocaust Studies	xiii
 Part One
Historical Representations of the Holocaust in Central Europe
Ruth G. Biró
Representations of Budapest 1944-1945 in Holocaust Literature	3
Tamás Kisantal
The Holocaust as a Paradigm for Ethical Thinking and Representation	18
Magdalena Marsovszky
About Antisemitism in Post-1989 Hungary	28
Andrea Pető
About the Narratives of a Blood Libel Case in Post-Shoah Hungary	40
 Part Two
Holocaust Testimony and Narratives
Anna Richardson
Mapping the Lines of Fact and Fiction in Holocaust Testimonial Novels	53
Ilana Rosen
Rescue Narratives by Central European Holocaust Survivors from Carpatho-Russia	67
Anne Rothe
The Third Reich and the Holocaust in East German Official Memory	79

Part Three

Kertész in Central European Holocaust Studies

Marko Čudić

On the Translation of Kertész's Sorstalanság (Fatelessness) into Serbian 97

Esther Faye

Kertész and the Problem of Guilt in Unfinished Mourning 110

Sándor Radnóti

Polyphony in Kertész's Kaddish for an Unborn Child
(Kaddish a meg nem született gyermekért) 122

Mihály Szilágyi-Gál

Arendt and Kertész on the Banality of Evil 133

Part Four

The Holocaust and Central European Women's Life Writing

Iris Milner

Towards a New Reading of Ida Fink's The Journey 147

Louise O. Vasvári

Emigrée Central European Women's Holocaust Life Writing 158

Louise O. Vasvári

Introduction to and Bibliography of Central European Women's Holocaust Life Writing in English 173

Contributor Profiles 201

Index 207